Course milestone M12: Presentation Planning: Your Audience, Your Pitches, and Your Questions

HONR 46400 · Evidence-Driven Research

What to submit

One file, `lastname_m12.pdf`. Everything this milestone asks for goes inside it, as sections in the order below.

Submit it on Brightspace, under Assignments then M12. Brightspace carries the deadline.

What to do

Your presentation plan

Your poster is printed. From here the research is spoken: at the Expo you stand next to the board and talk to people who did not come for you. This milestone is the plan for that conversation. Your pitches get a live test before the Expo: in class, you present your poster to the room as a practice run, and your classmates ask you the questions they prepared in their peer review. The course schedule names the day.

What goes in your file, in this order

1. Your audience. One paragraph on who will stop at your poster (students, faculty from other fields, people who know your topic, judges, family and friends), what they already know or believe about your question, and what they would do with your answer. Then two or three key points that will resonate with them.
2. Three elevator pitches, written as scripts, each with its word count shown:
   - 30 seconds, at most 75 words: your title, your question, and why it matters, with your headline at its true size;
   - 90 seconds, at most 200 words: adds your design and method in brief, your key result with its uncertainty, and why it matters;
   - 2 minutes, at most 300 words: the question, the design and method, the result, your interpretation, the main limitation, your next step, and where the finding could matter in the world.

   The boundary sentence, the one line saying where your evidence stops, appears at all three lengths, in the same words. Compression drops blocks, never bounds. Read each pitch aloud with a timer.
3. Poster integration. For each pitch, the block of your poster your hand points at, and when; then a short outline of how you move between sections.
4. Question and discussion strategy. How you will invite questions; three questions you expect, each with a one-sentence answer and marked as a bound request or an attack; at least three questions you will ask your audience; and one prepared "my design cannot settle that", with the smaller true claim your evidence does support.
5. Your Round 02 mentor meeting, confirmed. The date and time, who attended, what the meeting changed, and what you carried from it into this plan. If the meeting did not happen, say so, with the reason.
6. Your AI Research Ledger rows for this milestone, or "No AI used".

How it is graded

A 100-point rubric: audience analysis 15, the three pitches 25, bound discipline under compression 25, poster integration 10, question strategy 15, and craft, ledger and the meeting confirmation 10.
