Course milestone M13: Peer Review: Feedback and Questions for Every Other Poster

HONR 46400 · Evidence-Driven Research

What to submit

You submit this milestone through the M13 Poster Peer Review form, once for every poster other than your own. There is no file to upload. The links to the form and to the shared folder of posters are in the M13 assignment description on Brightspace, which also carries the deadline.

What to do

Your peer review

This is the milestone whose work is about someone else's research. I share a folder with every final poster as a PDF. You review every other poster in the M13 Poster Peer Review form, one response per poster: you rate it, write constructive, tangible feedback its author can act on, and write the questions you will ask its author. You ask those questions in person: in class, each author presents their poster to the room as a practice run before the Expo. The form shows a summary of your answers when you submit; save it and bring your questions to that session.

What goes in each form response

1. Your name and the poster's author. Your own poster is not offered.
2. Your ratings, from 1 (needs significant improvement) to 5 (excellent): an overall rating of the poster's clarity, novelty, and impact, and fifteen questions from the title to how well the poster invites discussion. Judge what the poster shows, not your own project. The ratings are feedback for the author and are not part of the author's grade.
3. At least three feedback items. Each points to a specific place on the poster, says what you noticed there, and offers a concrete change or next step. The form asks first for something that works well, so the author knows to keep it, then for an item on the evidence or the claim, then for your other suggestions.
4. At least three questions for the author, each specific to that poster and answerable at the board, at least one probing the evidence or the boundary of the claim. You mark which ones do.
5. Your AI Research Ledger rows for that review, or "No AI used". This review is yours: never upload a classmate's poster to an AI tool. You may use AI only to tighten the wording of what you already wrote, with a ledger row.

How it is graded

Two separate scores. The milestone score records that the review is complete and on time: one response for every other poster, every rating given, the minimums met, the ledger present. The Peer Review score judges the quality of the feedback and the questions. Neither score evaluates your own poster.
